

This is a snapshot of the UNITAR New York Office web site that I wrote and created in 1998.

The screenshot shows a web browser window with the title "@ UNITAR, New York". The address bar contains the URL "http://www.un.org/unitar/course.asp?crsindx=20". The browser's navigation bar includes buttons for Back, Forward, Stop, Refresh, Home, AutoFill, Print, and Mail. The main content area features the UNITAR logo and the text "United Nations Institute for Training and Research, New York". Below this, a blue banner reads "Course: WTO/UNITAR workshop on international trade". A left sidebar contains a menu with items: "2006 Calendar", "Programmes & Activities", "Training Material & Publications", "UNITAR, New York", and "UNITAR, Geneva". Below the menu is a "UN Home" link and a blue button that says "NO REGISTRATION AVAILABLE". A note below the button states: "*Note: Registration opens two weeks prior to course". The main content area is titled "Coordinator: Valenta, Nicole" and contains three sections: "OBJECTIVES", "ORGANIZATION", and "PARTICIPANTS". The "OBJECTIVES" section describes a workshop on trade negotiations for delegates based in New York, coordinated by UNITAR and the WTO. The "ORGANIZATION" section details the practical experience offered through simulation exercises in trade negotiation techniques. The "PARTICIPANTS" section states that the workshop is intended for members of permanent missions in New York and officials from capitals involved in trade-related issues. A "RESOURCE PERSONS" section mentions that the workshop will be jointly coordinated by WTO and UNITAR and led by Mr. Edwini Kessie, Counsellor, Council and Trade Negotiations Committee Division, WTO.

This is the description of the Workshop on International Trade as it appeared on the UNITAR site I created.

I also produced a manual on International Trade Negotiations for the course shown above, with input from the World Trade Organization and the Environmental Protection Agency. I participated in the development, implementation and evaluation this and other courses for UN diplomats.